

Tragedy of commons

Parents dream that their children should achieve great excellence in education. Every parent has an ambition that their children should become a reputed engineer or doctor, or an IAS officer and then help society as well as prosper in life. But most of them are not able to fulfil dreams with regard to their children success.

Parents dream that their children should achieve great excellence in education. Every parent has an ambition that their children should become a reputed engineer or doctor, or an IAS officer and then help society as well as prosper in life. But most of them are not able to fulfil dreams with regard to their children success.

Parents dream that their children should achieve great excellence in education. Every parent has an ambition that their children should become a reputed engineer or doctor, or an IAS officer and then help society as well as prosper in life. But most of them are not able to fulfil dreams with regard to their children success.

Parents dream that their children should achieve great excellence in education. Every parent has an ambition that their children should become a reputed engineer or doctor, or an IAS officer and then help society as well as prosper in life. But most of them are not able to fulfil dreams with regard to their children success.